Problems Again Mar Games

group records and top performers. Silvano Frigo, the overworked logistics chairman — a thankless job — did his best to solve hundreds of minor-to-major problems.

Granted, running a Veterans meet with 4,000 athletes is a staggering task. Americans, thinking about staging the 1989 Games, shudder at the thought. Yet the Games went off well in Toronto in 1975 (1427 athletes), in Gothenburg in 1977 (2700) and in Christchurch in 1981 (2000). It can be done.

Springbett, who has directed meets of more than 600 athletes, was critical of the Games: "The Italians ran the Games for WAVA and their own egos, not the athletes," he said. "The whole thing was poorly run — about the same as Puerto Rico."

There is danger, here, that serious athletes may perceive the Games as unreliable; that WAVA will be seen as ineffective and lose credibility.

"It was a mickey-mouse meet for something supposed to be that big," said George Mason.

On hand in Rome to observe was Australia's Ray Callaghan, who will direct the 1987 Games in Melbourne.

"I thought many of the gaffes were inexcusable," he said. "I promise they won't occur in Melbourne. We'll put on a professional show."

Callaghan asks NMN readers to submit suggestions for running and improving the Games. Write to: Ray Callaghan, c/o NMN, P.O. Box 2372, Van Nuys, CA 91404. □
